The Lord is close to the broken-hearted and saves those who are crushed in spirit” Psalm 34:18

“Thanks so much for all the time spent with me! Still living in victory!” (a single young lady in her twenties)

“We are so grateful for the time we spent with you. Life doesn’t seem to get any easier, but I know the counseling we got from you has helped our understanding and communication go deeper!” (a happy wife)

Those who come to Freedom Ministries for help are struggling because their hearts are broken and crushed. With God’s help, Jeanine and I look beyond their presenting words and behavior to their hearts. Their heart is the birthplace of their pain and where healing will transform their lives.

“We thank you for allowing God to use you in helping us see and understand the meaning of true love –with much more to learn! We’re learning that our depth of love is in proportion to our death to self. Though painful at first, it’s rewarding in the end. Life is much more enjoyable! Praise God!” (an out-of-town couple)

Jesus Himself told us that his mission on earth was to bind up the brokenhearted and heal their wounds when he quoted Psalm 147:3. You and I must be willing to go to Him and trust Him with our wounded hearts. Often, that leads to the difficult decision of forgiveness, towards God, others and ourselves. Giving our pain to Jesus, then supernaturally caring about our offender. But you say, “How can we love someone who has wounded us and hurt us?” Jesus is our example, “for while we were still in rebellion against Him, He loved us enough to die for us.” (Romans 5:8) The Bible promises that we are able to love because, “God’s love has been poured into our hearts through the Holy Spirit who has been given to us.” (Romans 5:5) “Truly, we are able to love, and forgive, even those who have hurt us, because He first loved us.” (1 John 4:19)

“Thank you for the time we spent together. You spoke to me from your own life experience. You met my fears, anger, insecurities, with patience and impressed upon me what Christ did and is doing for me today. You came alongside me when I was up against a wall and showed me the wall was of my own making. Life is Still life and I can't change what I can't change. Now my focus is on becoming the example for my daughter that God wants me to be." (a single father raising a teenage daughter)

Wounded people! Crushed hearts! All these examples invited Christ into their wounded heart and asked Him to come into the emotion, the memory, the broken place within them. They gave Him permission; access to their locked heart. They opened the door to a painful, hidden, often self-protected place in their hearts. Jesus said, "If you hear me calling and open the door, I will come in." (Revelation 3:20) We asked Jesus to bring his light there. "For God, who said, 'Let light shine out of darkness,' made his light shine in our hearts." (2 Corinthians 4:6)

This is the basis for healing, transformation, reconciliation, and restoration in people's lives.
